

WEATHER BULLETIN

Washington, D. C., Sept. 16.—Last bulletin gave forecasts of disturbances to cross continent Sept. 16 to 20, and 20 to 24; warm waves 15 to 19 and 19 to 23; cool waves 13 to 22 and 22 to 26; This weather period will start in and end with cool weather, with about a week of unusually warm weather in the middle. The storm will be of more than unusual force and more than usual rain is expected during last days of the period. In southern and eastern sections the rains will be general, or sufficient for all farming purposes.

This storm period will end the rain month that began near August 30th and the rains of the next month will shift a little more to the south and west and the heaviest rains will be in Central America. This will cause October to average a little colder than usual but the first ten days of the month will be unusually warm, all the middle part unusually cold and the last week of the month moderately warm. The greatest problem now before the farmer relates to the sowing of winter grain.

Next warm wave will reach Vancouver about Sept. 25, and temperatures will rise on all the Pacific slope. It will cross crest of Rockies by close of 26, plains sections 27, meridian 90, great lakes and Ohio valleys 28, eastern sections 29, reaching Newfoundland about Sept. 30. Storm wave will follow about one day behind warm wave and cool wave about one day behind storm wave.

This disturbance will organize a tropical storm that will be discovered in the West Indies during the week following. At the same time a high barometer and cold wave will appear in the middle northwest and will carry frost farther south than usual. Those two disturbances will have much to do with the weather: first ten days of October.

We predicted a tropical hurricane for the West Indies and a cool wave for the middle northwest with frosts near Sept. 3, we do not know about the frost damage. Our new system of forecasting began with first of September and its bow of promise was favorable.

If Congress can regulate the difficulty between harbor organizations and railroad owners it should be able to stop manipulations of the grain and cotton markets. More good would result by giving us fair markets than by regulating wages of railroad employees. Manipulating markets rob all who eat grain products, wear cotton goods or produce these necessities. Give us fair markets.

Mark it. Whoever knows in time and follows our crop weather calculations for 1917 and 1918 will be profited and the other fellows will be the losers. The crops of no two years of the past will be of more importance than those of the next two years will be.

West Texas Delegation Will Urge the Next Legislature to Pass Bill for School at Yaleta.

(By Associated Press.)
El Paso, Texas, Sept. 16.—To secure a state normal school for West Texas, to be located at Yaleta, is the purpose of a movement which was launched here recently by the El Paso County Teachers' Institute. A delegation headed by Representative R. E. Thomason and Miss Myra Wrinkler, the county superintendent of schools, will go to Austin at the next session of the legislature to urge the passage of a bill creating a normal school at Yaleta.

ELECTRIC POWER FOR IRRIGATION

Assistant Attorney General to Ask for Law to Be Enacted Whereby Bonds Can Be Voted.

(By Associated Press.)
Austin, Texas, Sept. 16.—A recommendation will be made by Judge C. M. Cureton, first assistant attorney general, to the Thirty-fifth Legislature for the enactment of a law wherein publicity utility districts may be formed for the purpose of voting bonds for the establishment of large electrical stations to supply power to farmers for irrigation and other purposes. At the present time farmers are pumping water for stock and irrigation purposes with gasoline, which is now too expensive as fuel; besides each farm or ranch has its own plant, which results in a multiplicity of power plants, which also is very expensive.

Some Doubt as to British Order on Shipping to Holland and Scandinavian Countries.

(By Associated Press.)
Washington, Sept. 16.—While the State department is investigating the latest British order restraining commerce to Holland and the Scandinavian countries, officials are in some doubt as to whether it affects American goods already covered by letters of assurance through the operation of the Netherlands Overseas Trust. The British embassy officials say it does not and Consul General Skinner cabled on September 11th supporting this view.
